Jap Peace Talks a Failure?

Expressions on the faces of Japanese Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura, left, and the special envoy, Saburo Kurusu, as they entered, top, and departed, below, from the latest White House conference with President Roosevelt on the tense Pacific situation tell, better than words, reported failure of the Japanese-U. S. peace talks. Happy, smiling faces of the envoys, top, are changed to expressions of seriousness in the photo below. Secretary of State Cordell Hull's document, embodying the basic principles which the U. S. considers essential to keeping peace in the Pacific, was being studied by high Japanese government officials, but the Japanese press asserted that it was displeasing to Japan and that a compromise is impossible.

BERLIN —(U.P.)— The official German news agency DNB said today that German troops had captured Volokolamsk, north of Moscow. The agency said Volokolamsk was the "center of Soviet resistance in the Moscow area.

Russia's Red armies reported today they had recaptured part of Rostov-on-Don in the Ukraine, smashed back German assault forces in three key sectors on the central front before Moscow, and killed more than 9,000 Nazis in bloody fighting along the 1,200-mile battleline.

Linked with this brightening picture of Russia's defense effort, a British broadcast said Red counter-attacks on the north flank of Moscow's defense arc had recaptured 10 villages between Klin and Kalinin, respectively 50 and 95 miles northwest of the capital.

A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters acknowledged that Soviet armies were fighting again "at Rostov," although previous Nazi reports asserted that German forces had pushed the Russians 35 miles beyond Rostov after capturing that Don river port, northern gateway to the Caucasus oil fields.

The Germans communique said the Russians suffered heavy losses

SPLIT OF TAX SURPLUS SEEN AS AIRPORT AID

Share of $11,000,000 State Fund Would Help Project, Councilman Says.

WOULD BE IN SPECIAL FUND

Mayor Says Plan Being Drawn To Improve Air Field If Money's Available.

Councilman Fred Miller, chairman of city council's finance committee, today saw a chance to allocate some of Mansfield's share of the undivided sales tax surplus, now being held by the state, to a fund for development of the field at the Mansfield airport.

Miller yesterday said the council stood ready to appropriate funds for improvement of the port "if an intelligent and well-planned program were presented" by the administration.

Six of the nine councilmen backed up Miller on his approval of immediate improvement of the landing field to protect Mansfield's air future. Three others could not be reached for comment.

Miller pointed out that if the city could obtain a share of the estimated $11,000,000 sales tax piled up by the state, that fund might be used for airport improvement.

"Even though the money would probably go into the general fund," said Miller, "council, if so inclined, and The News-Journal survey yesterday indicates that it is, could transfer the funds into a special airport fund."

Mansfield and Richland county have paid more than $700,000 so far this year to the state in sales tax receipts. They have been refunded only $109,000, slightly more than 14 per cent. Mansfield has received $42,000 of this amount and other governmental agencies in the county the remaining $67,000.

A state-wide move is now under way to persuade Gov. John W. Bricker to call a special session of the legislature to enact legislation by which municipalities could be given part of the big surplus.

However, Mayor W. J. Locke in commenting on the move in with both Republican and Democratic mayors are taking part, called the program "all a political move aimed at Gov. Bricker."

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today said that the question of whether a major Pacific conflict would follow a Japanese move into Thailand would be a matter which he would have to refer to the army and navy.

(By United Press)

TOKYO—The Japanese air force launched its first attack in many weeks on the Burma road as negotiations with the United States reached a point of high crisis today.

The Domei Japanese news agency reported that five formations of bombers, operating from bases in northern French Indo-China, blasted the Burma supply route to China for several hours yesterday afternoon.

The attacks were centered upon military objectives in the region around Kunming, Chinese termius of the highway, while truck convoys on the road south of Kunming were heavily strafed. The highway and military supply depots, it was claimed, were damaged.

(An American volunteer air force of 500 pilots and mechanics and 200 war planes is standing by in Yunnan to protect the Burma road, Shanghai reported. It was not known whether the planes went into action against the Japanese raiders.

* * *

The Domei agency reported that competent Japanese political observers thought Secretary of State Cordell Hull's note brought negotiations to "a conclusive stage" and Japan could not continue them if the United States insists on the fundamental principles of the nine-power pact guaranteeing the territorial integrity and open door in China.

Newspapers carried on their front pages photographs of warships, released by the navy censorship bureau, with captions which said the navy is "safeguarding the Pacific."

The newspapers commented with pessimism upon the negotiations. Asahi, in a typical comment, said it was impossible for the talks to succeed unless the United States abandons its basic principles and prepares to discuss "realities."

ANSWER SEEN IN INDO-CHINA

Developments There Expected To Be Reply to U. S. Terms to Japan.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON —Developments in French Indo-China today were expected to bring an early answer to the stiff terms laid down to Japan by the United States as conditions for a peaceful settlement of the far eastern crisis.

Highest government sources made it plain that whatever happens in the Pacific is squarely up to Japan and that the United States will not compromise its basic principles in dealing with the problem.

These principles call for Japan to get out of China and French Indo-China and to preserve a temporary status quo in the rest of the Far East.

Authoritative quarters have revealed that Indo-China is the potential tinder-box of the Far East. Ominous Japanese troops and naval movements there and in the South Pacific have indicated a possible attack on Thailand to the

'Sissy' Price Control Bill Placed Before Senate Today

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Just four months after President Roosevelt sent a special message to congress asking it to "act speedily" to prevent inflation, a drastically emasculated price control bill was before the senate today.

And in the upper house there was no indications that the senate would heed the president's request for speed any more than the house. Officials of the banking committee said no arrangements for hearings had been made yet, and leaders said the measure would not be on the floor before Jan. 1 at the earliest.

The long debated, controversial price control bill, as it passed the house by a vote of 224 to 161, had its teeth extracted by a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats, placing it in a form which administration leaders termed "ineffective."

Before sending the measure to the senate, the house by voice vote refused the provision permitting the price administrator to license business—a provision which the administrator, Leon Henderson, has termed "the backbone of enforcement of any price control."

The house also refused to retreat from provisions which limit farm price ceilings at below boom-year levels—provisions which Henderson has said "virtually exempt agricultural products from control."

Likewise, the house drastically restricted the government's power to buy and sell in the market, which Henderson said was "vital."

The house also refused to write any form of wage controls into the measure, and voted to create a five-man presidentially appointed senate-confirmed board of review with power to veto any ceilings imposed by the administrator.

Congressman J. Harry McGregor, representing the 17th district, was among the 11 Ohio Republicans who voted against the administration's compromise price control bill as it passed the house last night.

Chosen 'Coach of Year,' With Paul Brown Fourth.

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Frank Leahy, who in his first year at Notre Dame achieved an undefeated season, today was named "coach of the year" in the New York World-Telegram's seventh annual award.

Leahy, whose team won eight games and was tied by army, received 58 first place votes from the 274 coaches who voted.

Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, whose team was undefeated and untied, was second with 54 first place votes. Earl Blaik, who was serving his first year at West Point, placed third with 27 first place votes. Paul Brown, Massillon, O., high school coach who took over the head coaching job at Ohio State and piloted the Buckeyes to six victories, one defeat and one tie, came fourth with 18 firsts.

Surprise Due for 28 Who Think They Take Office Jan. 1

Twenty-eight Richland countians who think they were elected to village and township offices Nov. 4 may get a surprise Jan. 1 when they are scheduled to take over their new posts, Clerk Philip Wolfe of the county election board said today.

The 28 candidates, all of whom received the required number of votes for election, have failed to file their campaign expense reports and are not officially elected until they file their accounts.

Certificates of election have been mailed to 179 other city, village, and township officials and board of education members, Wolfe said.

Unless they file their reports before the end of the year, the 28 delinquents can't legally take office and won't be able to collect their pay if they do.

All the candidates elected to offices in Mansfield have filed and received their certificates, Wolfe said. The delinquents are candidates who apparently were elected to village and townships offices and board of education posts.

The candidates received expense blanks from the election board soon after election and were supposed to have filed them within 10 days.

Ohio Trappers Go After $1,500,000 In Furs Monday

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Almost a quarter of a million Ohio trappers are expected to set their traps Monday to open the season on mink, muskrat, opossum, skunk, fox, raccoon and weasel.

There is no bag limit on any of the fur bearing animals and the state conservation division expects trappers to bring in more than a million pelts valued at well over $1,500,000.

The season on mink, muskrat, opossum and skunk ends Jan. 15 and the season on mink and muskrat in the Lake Erie district ends March 15. The open season on fox ends Feb. 1.

Mink are expected to be most plentiful of the fur-bearing animals. The conservation division has predicted that almost 1,000,000 will be trapped during the 1940 season.

All licensed Ohio hunters are eligible to trap.

CHURCHILL'S 67

Will Observe Birthday Quietly Tomorrow Near London.

LONDON—(INS)—Winston Spencer Churchill — England's man of the hour—will be 67 tomorrow.

No celebrations will mark the occasion. Only the fact that his birthday falls on Sunday means that he will spend the day more quietly and without the pressure of his normal work day.

He hopes to spend it quietly in the country near London with his wife. It is unlikely that his children will be present, for they have asked for no special privileges and they all expect to be occupied with their various duties.

It is regarded as unlikely that the prime minister will issue any special birthday message to the nation or broadcast.

MAYFAIR LOSES LIQUOR PERMIT

State Revokes License After Agent Tells of Gambling Quarters at Inn.

The state liquor board late yesterday revoked the night club permit held by the Mayfair Inn on U. S. Route 30 west of Mansfield after evidence that gambling devices were operated at the establishment was produced at a hearing before the board in Columbus.

George Talbot, manager of the tavern, is awaiting trial in Richland county common pleas court on a charge of possessing and exhibiting gambling equipment for gain on the second floor of the establishment. It is expected his case will be heard the week of Dec. 8. Talbot did not appear at the hearing yesterday.

At the liquor board hearing yesterday John Barlow, state liquor investigator, told of finding nine slot machines, a roulette wheel, two dice tables, and a hazard board in an expensively furnished second-story room at the tavern the afternoon of Nov. 11. Deputy sheriffs confiscated the equipment in a raid that night.

Revocation of the permit removed the right to the tavern to sell any intoxicants before or after midnight. The night club permit covered the sale of beer and liquor until 2:30 a. m.

Barlow said Talbot informed him of the gambling equipment

Weatherman Says It'll Be Colder Sunday Night.

The late fall "warm wave" which gave Mansfield a reading of 60 degrees yesterday afternoon probably will end Sunady night, but before the colder weather comes the mercury may top yesterday's high.

Partly cloudy and warmer weather was forecast for tonight and Sunday by the weatherman. A drop in temperature was predicted for this section of the state by Sunday night.

Meanwhile, clear skies and bright sunshine shoved the mercury up to 55 before noon today and the reading for the afternoon was expected to go above the mark set Friday.

With a low of 41 recorded this morning, the average reading for the past 24 hours was 50.5 degrees, 17 above normal. Today was the sixth consecutive day that the skies have been clear.

HOLLYWOOD —(U.P.)— Studio gates and cafes where the movie stars and directors dine were watched today for Mary Palumbo, 16, of Cincinnati, stage-struck reader of fan magazines, who "ran away" from home in an airliner.

Miss Palumbo sent a message to her sister in Cincinnati, police learned late yesterday, saying she "arrived safely, don't worry, will get job." Telegraph company officials said the girl who sent the telegram was accompanied by a "short, fat and well-dressed man."

Open Drive for Yule Gifts For County's Men In Service

Richland county's men in service, almost 1,000 of them, will each find a carton of cigarets and a couple of chocolate bars in their Christmas stockings providing the home folks co-operate with a local plan to collect cigarets and chocolate on a major scale.

Sponsored jointly by the Soldiers-Citizens' committee and the Home Service club the "Smokes for Yanks" plan calls for the distribution of containers in every local grocery, drug store, hotel, recreation parlor, restaurant, delicatessen and industrial cafeteria where cigarets and chocolates are sold.

Into these containers Mansfielders and Richland countians will be asked to place their contributions. It will take a lot of single cigaret packages to make 1,000 cartons but Earl Saltzgaber, chairman of the Soldiers-Citizens' committee, believes the job can be accomplished in the next three weeks.

The plan was adopted yesterday at a joint meeting of the sponsoring groups held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms after the method was explained by Mrs. C. E. Patterson, 738 Andover road, a new member of the Home Service club, who came here recently from Chicago, where she saw the plan operate.

Mrs. Patterson and Grattan Johnston, Madison theater manager, were named to handle publicity.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—The failure of Floyd Odlum to do anything worth while to preserve small business enterprise in this country was freely predicted by this column before the attempt started. It is nothing for which Odlum should be either blamed or censured. He had a perfectly impossible task and his only lack of wisdom was in undertaking it at all.

Johnson

The defense productive effort is almost entirely in the metal-working and chemical industries. Here the great corporations are so much better fitted than the small ones that they can beat the little fellow in price, speed of production, and excellence and accuracy of output. It is true that there is a certain amount of sub-contracting that can be done among smaller enterprises. There always has been. The large corporations are really centers of clusters of such small specialists even in peace-time. These sub-contracts have been multiplied to the advantage of this smaller class of operators.

But when we go beyond this and attempt to make new clusters for new production on such a vast scale as the war effort, we are up against real difficulties. A certain amount of this was done and an earnest effort was made to use as much of the idle skills and machine capacity as possible. But when you add it all tgether, in comparison with the bulk of the effort, it is only a drop in the bucket.

When you go outside the metal-working and chemical industries to the great mass of establishments for manufacture of normal items of consumption for the civilian population there is virtually nothing that can be done if we continue our present policies of practically zero priority for that population. The reason for this unfortunate result is an entirely different one. It is that there is no material left over upon which these establishments can operate.

In my opinion, this is a very short-sighted and disastrous national policy. It results from the unplanned expansion of war production by the expenditure of unlimited and almost uncounted billions with no certainty as to when or where, if ever, the production is to be used.

However, that is not the point of this piece. What it is desired to emphasize here is that the inevitable result of this process will, in a very short time, wipe out much of independent business and leave almost our entire economy in the control of our greatest corporations. It is a reversal of the American policy against monopoly and in favor of free enterprise since our beginning.

If this were merely accidental or an inevitable consequence of the war there might be little to be said about it. Such is not the case.

There has for years been a school of so-called thought among some of our advanced "thinkers" that our most efficient production and quickest way to "production for use and not for profit" is to concentrate control of industry in the hands of a few of our greatest and most efficient corporate groups and then to have the government regulate them "in the common interest" almost to the point of management.

It is not at all unlike Mussolini's "corporative state." At its inception, its authors expected it to take years to accomplish through constantly increasing debt and deficit financing. The war has advanced progress toward that goal by decades. Pending bills for confiscatory taxes and for licensing of all business added to the growing government ownership or liens on new defense plants indicate how far it has gone on the regulatory sides just as the conditions above discussed into which small enterprise is rapidly entering indicate how far it has gone on the other side.

We are witnessing a profound revolution in our politics and economy which is moving at hurricane speed and most of us seem not to be even aware of it or, if we are aware not to give a damn.

Railroads Answer '$1 Raise' Plan Today

APPEAR BEFORE ROOSEVELT'S FACT BOARD

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Spokesmen for the nation's railroads were called before President Roosevelt's special fact-finding board today to reply to compromise labor suggestions of a minimum $1 a day wage increase for 1,150,000 railworkers.

The board, which yesterday heard counsel for the railroad brotherhoods repeat threats of a nationwide strike starting Dec. 7 on their demands for wage boosts, is to report to Mr. Roosevelt Monday.

The suggestion for a minimum wage increase of $1 or 12½ cents an hour was advanced by Charles M. Hay, representing 350,000 operating employes, and concurred in by Frank L. Mulholland, counsel for the 800,000 non-operating workers.

Although neither committed their unions to acceptance of the proposal, they indicated that the workers would agree to them.

Representatives of the railroad employes said they "very probably will have something to say on the subject" today. Observers believed the suggestions might form the basis of a compromise.

The operating brotherhoods had asked for an increase of 30 cents an hour and the non-operating brotherhoods a 35 per cent pay boost. After extensive hearings in Chicago last fall the board recommended a 7½ per cent increase for the former and 9 cents an hour, or an average of 13½ per cent for the latter.

The recommendations were rejected by both brotherhoods. The operating unions scheduled a walkout for Dec. 7, but the non-operating unions have set no date for a strike.

Hay estimated that the compromise suggestions would cost the railroads about $400,000,000 a year, as against the $900,000,000 involved in the original demand.

Mulholland did not add to Hay's suggestion but merely called the board's attention to it and said he joined with "Mr. Hay in urging its consideration."

URGES COTTAGE SCHOOLS FOR DEAF AND BLIND

Legislative Commission Calls Present Buildings 'Fire Traps.'

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—A special legislative commission today recommended that state institutions for the deaf and blind in Columbus be moved from present "fire trap" buildings to new, cottage type schools.

The commission, headed by State Sen. Walter G. Nickels (R.) of Tuscarawas county, also recommended:

1. That immediate steps be taken to dispose of present buildings and sites and the two schools moved to rural or semi-rural sites near Columbus.

2. That an army type aerial photograph survey be made to determine where the schools should be.

3. That the school for the deaf have at least an 80 acre tract of land and the school for the blind at least 40 acres so that both will be surrounded by sweeping lawns and rolling fields.

4. That the two schools not be combined, nor be connected in any way, because of the differences in their problems.

5. That the school for the blind start with 12 cottages and the school for the deaf with 16.

In addition, each school would have central buildings for educational and administrative purposes.

The commission recommendation was made after a study of similar schools in New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Both Democrats and Republicans voted for the new plan. It was decided not to make a trip to Oklahoma and Arkansas schools but to accept a report on these from Rep. George D. Barrick (D.) of Coshocton, who is making a personal trip south this winter.

Each of the cottages, it was recommended, should be no more than two stories high, have a full basement and be a complete living unit.

Cottages at the school for the blind should accommodate 20 pupils with their instructors and attendants and those at the school for the deaf, 25 pupils, with additional rooms for the staff.

Senator Nickels named a subcommission of four to investigate and report upon suitable sites. Members are Rep. E. E. Addisoil (R) of Columbus; Rep. W. H. Deddens (R.) of Hamilton; Rep. Barrick, and Sen. William Boyd (R.) of Lorain.

From now on city departments can look to a new barometer for an indication of what the weather is going to be as a matter of deciding whether or not it will be worthwhile to start a new project if rain or snow threatens to descend at any moment. Mayor William J. Locke, who acquired the desk piece, feels that the barometer will be pretty valuable to the city now that snow and ice is in the offing and the street department will be called upon to protect motorists and pedestrians from hazardous driving and walking. In fact, he said, the city is already contemplating setting out barrels of calcium chloride at the bottom of some of the city's steep hills so that the police department can assist in eliminating some of the hazardous conditions bound to be created by ice.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

The Legends of Broadway.

THIS legend is about a song with no love or moon in its lyrics, but one that career'd one of our favorite characters into a national glamor boy. One Harry Lillis Crosby, known to the mob as Bing.

* * *

Kilgallen

The four - piece jazz band is really giving with all its got, because Olsen and Johnson are in the joint with the cast of their show, "Monkey Business."

At a dance intermission, the drummer — the fellow named Bing — and the piano player — a fellow named Al Rinker—stroll from table to stable singing. When they drew near the comedy team's table they break into "Papa Loves Mama."

Ole Olsen says, "You kids are funny. How much do you get here?" and Bing and Al chime in chorus time: "Twenty-five a week and meals."

Ole looks at Chic, gets the nod, and says: "Meet us next Wednesday at the Golden Gate in Frisco. Forty a week—no meals!"

* * *

Indianapolis was where Pops, the great Paul Whiteman, caught them. He sat in an upper box with Matty Malneck and Mildred Bailey, and when Matty said, "Those boys would be perfect for the act, Paul," the boys were hired. They had leaped a yawning chasm from a Chinese chowerie to the Whiteman band — a collection of greats that included at the time Bix Biederbecke, Eddie Lang, Joe Venuti, the Dorseys, Henry Busse and Ferde Grofe.

Paul soon opened his Paul Whiteman club on the site where the Hollywood restaurant now rests in darkened state, and Bing and Al stayed on the payroll, toting instruments and filling in at poker sessions. And one night about this time Paul and Matty went down to the Parody club to hear Jimmy Durante, and a young piano player caught their fancy with the way he played and sang a bit and mugged. Paul signed him right away.

The young piano player was Harry Barris, and here the legend gets to sound like fiction stuff, because Harry was rooming with Bing and Al.

* * *

At this point Harry was working on a new song. When he had it set he played it for the hall room boys and they went.

They practiced it for a week, and for fun, asked Paul to audition it. And Paul listened and went overboard. "Dust off your tuxedos," he said. "You're in the show tonight."

You've heard the phrase "they wowed 'em," of course? That's what the boys did. They sang "It's a treat to beat your feet on the Mississippi mud!" Harry pounding the little piano like mad, Al stamping his feet like a dervish and Bing imploring with outstretched hands. "Hey, hey, Uncle Dud . . . It's a treat to beat your feet on the Mississippi mud!"

* * *

Whiteman, then the kingpin band of Victor, insisted a recording be made of the number—without the band. Paul was the guy to do nice thinks like that. The record became the number one platter of the day and the boys were on their way.

Rinker is the director of many important radio programs today, Harry Barris is in pictures, and they tell me that Bing has very little to worry about in the employment field.

VISITORS TO SEE FIRST PLANE COME OFF LINE AT COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS — Guests at the dedication of the Curtiss-Wright company's $14,000,000 Columbus plant next Thursday will see the first plane to come off the assembly line—a "Seagull" scout observation plane for the navy.

The first model of the plane has been completed. Built for use either with wheels or pontoons, the SO3-C-1, a low-wing monoplane with a single engine, will operate from cruisers or battleships, launched by catapult. Its speed is reported to be exceeded in the navy service only by some pursuit ships.

The plant at Port Columbus is almost ready for mass production. Already 3,700 men are at work and at peak production by October, 1942, 13,000 will be employed with a $19,000,000 annual payroll.

Among more than 1,000 guests expected at the dedication will be Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics, and Artemus L. Gates, assistant secretary of the navy for air.

Other guests will be Rear Admiral John Downs, commandant of the ninth naval district and Capt. Osborne B. Harrison, aide to Mr. Gates.

The other plane to be produced at the Columbus plant is the SBC-21, navy dive bomber called the "Helldiver." This ship, for operation from aircraft carriers, carries a 1700-horsepower Curtiss Hurricane engine of 14 cylinders and is heavily armed for combat.

Its bomb load, carried internally to reduce air resistance, is dropped through hatches in the bottom of the fuselage.

The Columbus plant will produce planes exclusively for the navy and both its models will be entirely new, never produced elsewhere except as experimental models.

APPEAR BEFORE ROOSEVELT'S FACT BOARD

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Spokesmen for the nation's railroads were called before President Roosevelt's special fact-finding board today to reply to compromise labor suggestions of a minimum $1 a day wage increase for 1,150,000 railworkers.

The board, which yesterday heard counsel for the railroad brotherhoods repeat threats of a nationwide strike starting Dec. 7 on their demands for wage boosts, is to report to Mr. Roosevelt Monday.

The suggestion for a minimum wage increase of $1 or 12½ cents an hour was advanced by Charles M. Hay, representing 350,000 operating employes, and concurred in by Frank L. Mulholland, counsel for the 800,000 non-operating workers.

Although neither committed their unions to acceptance of the proposal, they indicated that the workers would agree to them.

Representatives of the railroad employes said they "very probably will have something to say on the subject" today. Observers believed the suggestions might form the basis of a compromise.

The operating brotherhoods had asked for an increase of 30 cents an hour and the non-operating brotherhoods a 35 per cent pay boost. After extensive hearings in Chicago last fall the board recommended a 7½ per cent increase for the former and 9 cents an hour, or an average of 13½ per cent for the latter.

The recommendations were rejected by both brotherhoods. The operating unions scheduled a walkout for Dec. 7, but the non-operating unions have set no date for a strike.

Hay estimated that the compromise suggestions would cost the railroads about $400,000,000 a year, as against the $900,000,000 involved in the original demand.

Mulholland did not add to Hay's suggestion but merely called the board's attention to it and said he joined with "Mr. Hay in urging its consideration."

Tells of Escape In Sinking of U. S. Destroyer

ASHTABULA —(AP)— Roy V. Bus', 18-year-old oiler on the lost U. S. destroyer Reuben James, today told of avoiding depth charges while waiting to be picked up in the North Atlantic.

Bush, who survived the Oct. 31 torpedoing to arrive home yesterday, was one of 45 rescued crewmen.

Bush said he was asleep in the aft of the destroyer when she was struck. He ran to the deck and dove over the side with L. E. Tygher of Detroit. They swam away from the ship to escape depth charges which rolled from the slanting deck and exploded.

Soon they reached a life raft, and remained aboard 45 minutes until picked up by one of the ships in the convoy they had been escorting.

AKRON —(AP)— Joseph Hajowy, 21, machinist's mate on the U. S. destroyer Reuben James, will attend a memorial service Dec. 7 for Charles Hayes, Akron youth and shipmate who was drowned when the destroyer sank.

Hajowy, who arrived yesterday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roman Hajowy, also lost another friend, James B. Clark of Akron, when the warship went down.

Hajowy will return to sea Dec. 17, he said.

ON PROBATION

Mansfield Woman Released on Manslaughter Charge.

Miss Sarah Mosberg, 467 Sherman place, was placed on probation for two years in common pleas court yesterday after she pleaded guilty to a grand jury indictment for second-degree manslaughter.

Judge C. H. Huston ordered her to report to David Lantz, county probation officer and court bailiff.

Miss Mosberg was indicted secretly by the grand jury several weeks ago but the indictment was not served until Nov. 15. She was released then under $1,000 bond.

The indictment resulted from a traffic accident last July 12 at the intersection of Bowman road and State Route 96, north of Mansfield, where Raymond Bricker, 37, of Shelby, was fatally injured. Miss Mosberg was accused of failing to observe a stop sign at the intersection. The car she was driving collided with one driven by Bricker.

CINCY QUIETING HORN BLASTERS

Police Ordered To Enforce Anti-Noise Law Strictly.

CINCINNATI —(INS)— If you should see a Cincinnati patrolman standing with his hand cupped to his ear today, think nothing of it. He's just listening for an illegal toot of an auto horn.

City Manager C. O. Sherrill passed the word to police that the city would follow the example of Cleveland and Memphis, Tenn., both of which, he said, had materially reduced both noise and the accident rate through strict enforcement of anti-horn ordinances.

JAPANESE BOMB VITAL CHINESE SUPPLY ROUTE

The Japanese (Domei) news agency said authoritative quarters declared such a move would be regarded by Japan as "directly hostile action."

(Editors note: A Bangkok dispatch to the London Daily Telegraph, quoting reports from Tokyo, said Japanese aircraft based in Indo-China yesterday bombed Kunming, Chinese terminus of the Burma road.)

According to Domei, authoritative Japanese sources said establishment of an aerial patrol over the Burma road by the United States would constitute "provocative armed aggression on the part of the A-B-C-D powers because such a move obviously would be undertaken by the United States only after consultation with other powers.

See Die Cast This Week-End In Pacific

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Official Washington today believes that the destiny of the Pacific may be determined this week-end.

Tokyo is expected to make up its mind during the next 72 hours whether to defy the western powers or try to avert a showdown pending further developments in the European situation.

If Japan decides to risk a showdown now, it is believed the Japanese may move into Thailand during the next few days. In that event, authoritative sources in Washington expect British forces in Malaya to cross the border into Thailand to check the Japanese. If that happens, it is believed a major conflict in the Pacific will soon develop.

However, there is a school of thought in official quarters here which believes Japan will back down and await more decisive developments in the Russo-German conflict before hitching its fate completely to the Axis star.

SURPLUS SEEN AS AIRPORT AID

Share of $11,000,000 State Fund Would Help Project, Councilman Says.

At present the sub-divisions get a total refund of $12,000,000 regardless of the amount of sales receipts collected by the state. Lausche and other municipal executives want the money divided to ease their local financial difficulties. Any legislation, however, would benefit all of the cities.

Mayor Locke said today that a program is being formulated for improvement of the airport but added it was not yet ready for presentation to council for consideration.

The mayor indicated that his program which would include the construction of hard-surfaced runways for aircraft landing and take-offs was dependent upon "negotiations" under way with government officials in Washington.

Locke said that he had been working in conjunction with a committee of airport officials and also with members of the Junior Association of Commerce, who recently made a survey of the airport situation.

Commenting on Miller's announcement that $5,000 could be expended annually for improving the airport, Locke pointed out that much more money would be needed to carry out the "hard-surface" runway plan.

"If $5,000 were to be appropriated annually," said Locke, "I'd like to know what it would be used for before approving its appropriation."

Alan Tappan, aviation enthusiast and member of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce aviation committee, has been in Washington conferring with federal officials concerning the possibility of governmental aid in improving the Mansfield airport. Tappan was a member of the committee which urged council to make the original purchase of the airport in 1925.

Minister's Story.

The charm and quaintness of the early 1900's is captured in the film, "One Foot In Heaven," showing at the Ohio. Telling the story of a struggling minister and his typical American family the picture presents Fredric March as the minister and Martha Scott as his wife. Their life as they move from one charge to another, and their struggle to live within a "country parson's" income forms the story that was first recorded by Hartzell Spence in his book by the same name. Based on the life of the author's father, Rev. William H. Spence the story is portrayed by a cast that includes Beulah Bondi and Gene Lockhart.

* * *

Comedy With Music.

The Deanna Durbin-Charles Laughton-Robert Cummings comedy, "It Started With Eve," showing at the Madison, traces the adventures of a hat check girl who is erroneously presented at the home of a millionaire as his son's fiancee. When the girl decides to continue the pose she makes things difficult for the son and lively for his father. Laughton plays the role of the father, one of his choice comedy parts outside of "Ruggles of Red Gap." Miss Durbin sings Dvorak's "Going Home," and a number of other airs as the hat check girl who is musically ambitious. Walter Catlett and Guy Kibbee are cast. "The Last of the Duanes," is the second picture.

South Sea Drama.

"Aloma of the South Seas," with Dorothy Lamour and Jon Hall opens Sunday at the Ritz. Selected short subjects will supplement the bill but there will be no second feature.

Broderick Crawford plays the chap who buys shoes too small for his feet and bets his all on a horse named "Feet First." Binnie Barnes plays a Broadway actress and an assortment of other characters are depicted by Leo Carillo, Anne Gwynne and Ed Gargan. An international plot to turn vessels of the United States over to unfriendly foreign powers furnishes motive for "The Devil Pays Off," the co-attraction, with William Wright.

Romantic Comedy.

"Million Dollar Baby," with Priscilla Lane, Ronald Reagan, and Jeffrey Lynn is the Sunday attraction at the Majestic. "Troubled in Texas," a Tex Ritter picture, will share the bill.

REDS SMASH FOE ON KEY FRONTS

On the central front, Hitler's high command claimed a new advance in the two-months-old drive on Moscow but gave no details.

The Nazi high command said German forces were clearing the center of Rostov in "necessary measures against the population which, contrary to international law, participated in fighting at the rear of German troops."

Presumably, this meant that when Red army troops stormed into the old part of Rostov, driving the Germans out, residents of the captured city brought out hidden arms and sniped at the Nazis.

Soviet front-line dispatches said 2,000 Germans had been killed in the Klin sector, another 2,000 by Russian aerial attacks, and more than 5,000 in fighting around Leningrad.

On the North African war front, Britain's desert armies were reported plunging westward across the sandy wastes of Libya, striking at the heart of Gen. Edwin Rommel's main German corps, while other imperial forces closed in on trapped Axis units between Tobruk and the Libyan-Egyptian frontier.

Advices reaching London said the "artillery is thinning out" in the Tobruk sector, 90 miles west of Egypt, but it was uncertain whether they were being withdrawn to the west—indicating a German retreat.

The Nazi high command conceded that the British were pushing toward Tobruk, but a Berlin spokesman asserted that they had not yet established contact with the Tobruk garrison—as officially claimed by the British—and said armored legions were executing encircling attacks on British forces advancing from the southeast.

Premier Mussolini's high command reported the "annihilation" of a British motorized brigade along with the capture of more than 1,000 prisoners in bitter fighting in the central desert zone.

"At Tobruk, a new attack by the adversary in the easterly direction attempting to break the ring which holds them tightly was completely broken by troops of the Bologna division," the Fascist high command said.

By contrast, the British yesterday reported the destruction of almost the entire Bologna division.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1941.

Drive carefully tomorrow—especially if the weather is fine and you're on a straight, wide highway.

The legend of Nero fiddling while Rome burned has its modern counterpart in Madam Perkins knitting through the labor crisis.

A voluntary bankrupt in Philadelphia listed liabilities at $2,647,942; assets "none"—thus qualifying for a high place in New Deal financial circles.

Stop That Frightful Waste!

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT indicates a favorable attitude toward suggested legislation to "meet the question of lobbying by former government officials."

This subject has been brought into the foreground of public interest by the absurdity of Charles West, former congressman from this Seventeenth Ohio district, suing a New York ordnance company for $687,000, alleged to be the balance due him for landing $70,000,000 worth of defense contracts for his so-called client.

Ridiculous as it may appear to those who know him, that Charlie West could ever EARN $687,000 (or would know what to do with it if he should get it), the West episode is not the really important point in connection with award of defense contracts.

Charlie's claim has to do with no more than a measly $70,000,000 in defense contracts, and he must be regarded as a relatively small fish in the New Deal aquarium. What about others in the galaxy of New Deal favorites who are reputedly fattening by promoting private business interests, in connection with the national defense program, at the expense of hard-pressed taxpayers—who are to be even harder-pressed next year, according to plans for further tax boosts?

Instead of a mere $70,000,000 in orders, on which West claims a one per cent commission, there's an estimated SIXTY SEVEN BILLION DOLLARS to be expended for national defense—on which a one per cent commission would amount to $670,000,000 in "go-between" fees alone.

If it is to meet such costs that income tax exemptions have been lowered to grab a few paltry dollars from married and single persons whose earnings are little above a decent subsistence level, there should be such a howl go up over the country as will reach even into the cloistered realm of the nation's law makers and administrative wastrels.

Americans are willing to pay BILLIONS FOR DEFENSE—but will not condone, nor complacently ignore, the way in which their hard-earned money is being wasted by either well-intentioned incompetents or outright crooks.

Depending On Federal Money

DEPENDENCE on federal funds to meet costs of improving the Mansfield airport is so much in accord with what has become a general attitude over the country that it can scarcely be objected to.

Almost every day reports are received of "federal money" meeting practically the entire cost of airport developments in many small cities—more frequently in southern states, where administration bounties are very liberally spread.

Florida has recently been the recipient of numerous airport favors and just now Gulfport, Miss., with a population of 15,000, is enjoying the benefits of a $404,000 federal appropriation for an airport, with no other requirement from the city than furnishing the site.

There has heretofore been encouragement of an idea that the Mansfield airport would be permitted to share in federal funds allocated for such purposes, and it would seem that fair consideration of this city's desirability as an aviation center, coupled with the excellence of training personnel, shop equipment and barracks facilities, would result in the local airport being included in the government's development program—as the cost of concrete runways and night lighting equipment would be relatively small.

Expression of interest in airport improvements, by a majority of members of the incoming city council, and likelihood that some money can be set aside each year for this purpose, encourages belief that the government's requirement for show of local willingness to co-operate can be met by early next year and that a start can be made on a practicable improvement program.

Family Air Bus Promised

MAYBE it isn't too soon to start thinking about what kind of airplane will best serve the needs of yourself and family—unless you plan to attain distinction in old age by telling a reporter that you've never ridden in a plane.

One manufacturer says he already has complete plans for "the family car of the air," awaiting only the end of the war. It would take no more time to put such a runabout on the market than it takes now to get a new automobile into production.

It is a thrilling prospect, which the average American may view with mingled hope and fear. It would be wonderful to chase around in the air with the same freedom now enjoyed in land transportation, only more so. But taking to the air in a big and personal way, as many Americans are planning, or at least dreaming about, may not be so simple after all. In fact, it may be very complicated.

The airlanes are now marked out clearly in various routes and levels, to avoid interference and collision. When people start flying privately by hundreds of thousands, traffic regulation may be more difficult than can now be imagined—especially if a license to drive a plane is as easily procurable as a license to drive an automobile . . . which can scarcely be regarded as less dangerous.

Tin Foil Drafted for Defense

THE TIN FOIL that surrounds candy bars, tobacco products, chewing gum, beverages, typewriter ribbons and friction tape is to disappear soon. It has been consuming 6,500 tons of lead a month. That is too much, since lead is widely used in defense production.

Waxed paper and cellophane will still be with us, however, and this prospect is not so appalling as it would have been a few years ago, before the art of opening cellophane wrappers was mastered.

A prehistoric skull found in Australia has a brain cavity only half the size of an average man—possibly that of an early day "leader."

Civilization may be down, but it's not out.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Nobody asked me, but it's good to see Roscoe Turner back again . . . He had a bad crack-up last year, fractured a pelvic bone, and for awhile it seemed as if America's crack stunt flier was over the horizon. . . . But, he's back, he's still operating his flying school, and when I bumped into him his indominitable waxed mustachios were as aggressively pointed as ever.

That was an interesting experiment in tax money pulled by the Museum of Modern Art. To illustrate how tax money adds up, the 3-cent tax to admissions were tossed into a huge glass bowl. The bowl finally broke, and when the money was counted there were over 30,000 pennies . . . Incidentally, only two were Indian heads, one dated 1887, the other 1903.

THE urge to "tell all" has struck hard this season, and more prominent people than you could shake hands with in an evening are writing their autobiographies. The memoirs of two circus executives, two Broadway actresses, a public relations counsel, two editors, a doctor, and a novelist were issued within a few days...

I was fascinated with a book called "Fun by the Ton," which tells all about elephants . . . Edward Allen and F. Beverly Kelley, who wrote it, emphasize these points: sometimes elephants do forget . . . They do not live to be hundreds of years old . . . Their life span is roughly that of a man's . . . After a performing elephant reaches 60 he isn't of much account . . . His legs won't hold him up . . . Only a few elephants have weighed as much as five tons . . . But that's big enough . . . As the authors point out, that's bigger than anything you're likely to see this side of delirium tremens.

AS SOON as the hunting season opens I begin thinking of Clair Maxwell, of Time, crack wingshot whose talents have contributed to my enjoyments of living more than once . . . Last night I ran into him in the Revere Room at the Lexington and he told of some exciting pheasant shooting in New Jersey . . . "We flushed more than 20 birds in a single afternoon," he cried. "It was magnificent" . . . Then he hurried out, leaving me feeling so sorry for myself that I ordered a platter of fried chicken, wishing it were duck.

RITA HAYWORTH must have the best press agent in America. She gets more stories and magazine covers than Defense. One day she's in Maryland at a football game. Next day she broadcasts from New York. Day after that she goes skiing in New England . . . Later, that night she makes a personal appearance in Philly. I see her on the signboards, on theater marquees, and in newspapers. She is certainly the most publicized young woman in America.

'Beartrap' for Forgetful Debtors

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Capital Talk: Uncle Sam may forgive his debtors but he doesn't forget them. Over in the General Accounting Office are ten clerks who do nothing but be sure that the people who owe Uncle Sam money aren't forgotten.

This little division of GAO was started only a few years ago and in its beginnings had only one clerk. Since then, the division has grown to such proportions that in government employe circles it has acquired the nickname of "the beartrap." Caught in the trap when it was last run were more than 300,000 persons who owe the government the staggering sum of more than $1,650,000,000. (These are individual and company debts and have nothing whatever to do with unpaid foreign loans.)

Probably the reason that Uncle's nephews and nieces gave the "beartrap" its nickname is that thousands of them have had their fingers nipped in it. Whenever a government employe quits, owing the government for extra time off, overpayment for expenses, etc., his card goes into the file. And if he ever steps into government service again (as thousands have since national defense started), he pays his debt or else.

Uncle Sam's debtor list is growing by leaps and bounds. The average monthly additions now have crawled up to around 5,000, while settlements are being made at the rate of only 600 a month. At that, the United States is no slouch at collecting its bad debts from individuals and corporations. From a half million to a million dollars a year rolls into the federal coffers as result of GAO's new collection policy.

THERE'S a curious reason behind the government's establishment of TWO internment camps and why the Italian sailors (interned when their ships were seized in American harbors) are held at Fort Mizzoula, Mont., and the German sailors at Fort Lincoln, N. D.

That reason—and the only one—is that the government doesn't dare keep these sons of the Axis powers together because they constantly fight.

Even in transporting them, although many seamen from both Germany and Italy were arrested in the same harbors, they were kept far enough apart so that they couldn't even threaten each other.

When I asked a government official who has been connected with internment of the sailors what made them fight, he shrugged his shoulders and said: "All I can get out of them is that they hate each other like poison."

PAUL V. McNUTT, Federal Security administrator, has started a campaign to coin common or "popular" names to replace scientific terms which sometimes scare the daylights out of persons buying foods and drugs.

As an example of what he is driving at, Mr. McNutt cites the important vitamin, "nicotinic acid." This vitamin, so essential to health, Mr. McNutt explains, is found in lean meat, certain vegetables, milk, and in some other common articles of diet — yet when processors label their wares, "This contains so many units of nicotinic acid," the customers shy from it as if it were unadulterated poison.

"Words, to the scientist," says Mr. McNutt, "may be purely descriptive but to ordinary people they often have the power to arouse loyalty or hate, belief or unbelief, confidence or skepticism."

Draftee Complains

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

INTRODUCING, as Colmunist-for-a-Day, a Sergeant of the U. S. Army Air Corps. . . . Hamilton Field, California. "Sarge" has a peeve. He doesn't think Uncle Sam is doing right by The Boys. Take, f'rinstance, this matter of pay.

"How in heck can a fella put on a decent front on the miserly $21 per month they give us?" says he.

"Recently I read an article you wrote called 'panty-waists or patriots' in which you razzed us because we have amusement centers, pretty girl hostesses, parties and a few other things to make a life agreeable.* Why shouldn't we have them? Why should we be asked to make all the sacrifices without getting even a little pleasure in return?

"Most of our posts are located miles from any decent-sized town. During the time I was at Randolph Field it was 17 miles into San Antonio. Hitch-hiking was forbidden so there were only two ways of getting in . . . ride with a friend who has a car . . . or take the bus, which is 50 cents, the round trip. Figure for yourself how often we could afford to go. And when we got there, what could we do? There was plenty of amusement—if you had the price. But we didn't. We'd just have to hang around until it was time to come back.

"You can imagine what our thoughts were like on that return trip . . . thinking of the home gang and the swell times they were having . . . remembering the girls you used to take stepping when you had real money in your pocket . . . realizing how they'd all pity you, or maybe snicker at you, if they could see you now in your badly cut uniforms, unable to keep up with the town fellows with their sporty sweaters, slacks, etc.

"Believe me, thoughts like those will drive a fellow to doing a lot of things he wouldn't consider otherwise."

That's an important letter. It's important because it speaks for over a million homesick, sulky, bewildered boys, many of whom suspect they're getting history's Dirtiest Deal. If I thought it really represented Young America's attitude, I'd sell my stake in this nation to the first junk dealer. But it isn't representative.

IT'S MERELY THE RESULT OF A LOT OF COCKEYED LIVING FOR WHICH WE OLDSTERS ARE AS RESPONSIBLE AS YOU YOUNGSTERS.

You're not the cowardly crybaby, Sarge, which your words seem to indicate. At heart I'll wager that you're as brave, as decent, sensible and sound as most of your generation. Your night school work proves that. But you're not hatched yet.

YOU'VE NO IDEA OF REAL VALUES. YOU'VE GROWN UP IN A DIZZY DAZE, WANTING EVERYTHING IN SIGHT AND WANTING IT PRONTO. THE MORE YOU GET, THE MORE YOU DEMAND. YET NONE OF IT HAS BROUGHT YOU LASTING HAPPINESS OR PRIDE. SO NOW YOU'RE BLAMING UNCLE SAM. DON'T!

Stop and realize one fundamental fact—you'd have had to endure most of the drabness of which you complain, whether you'd been inducted into the army or not. There are grim preparatory periods and monotonous interludes in life which none of us can escape, no matter how expensive our slacks nor how beauteous our dreams. If you're a Real Egg, you can make it all a little pleasanter for yourself—and infinitely easier for the Other Fellow—by carrying it off with a grin. But if you're hell-bent on being a target for your own tears, no one can save you from a lifetime of misery.

And no one will want to.

AND THAT GOES FOR THE LONG YEARS AHEAD, WHEN YOU'RE OUT OF THE ARMY, AS WELL AS FOR THE ROUGH GOING NOW. FOR LIFE'S LIKE THAT . . . AND NONE OF US CAN DUCK IT. THANK HEAVEN YOU'RE GETTING YOUR CHANCE TO GROW UP WITH A REGULAR CROWD . . . UNDER A FLAG THAT'S WORTH ALL YOU HAVE TO GIVE!

Oversight In Law.

Under a law passed by the last Ohio legislature, state employes who are called into service under the Selective Service Act, or as members of the national guard or the officers' reserve corps, were given statutory assurance they would get their jobs back upon the conclusion of their military service.

But state officials have discovered that the new law makes no similar provision for the volunteer who enlists in the regular army, the navy or the marine corps.

It would seem that when legislation is under consideration that there should be someone somewhere in the state government, whether the governor, the adjutant general or a member of the legislature itself, whose duty it should be to scrutinize it in order to avoid obvious oversights such as this discrimination against the volunteer soldier.

The correction of this blunder should be the first enactment at the next session of the Ohio general assembly.—Columbus Citizen.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Morrison Remick Waite, sixth chief justice of the United States, was born at Lyme, Conn., on Nov. 29, 1816. On the bench, Waite was called to consider many of the questions arising under the Amendments to the Constitution adopted following the Civil war and is known for having maintained the balance between state and federal rights with absolute impartiality.

This Is Ohio

AS a reward for his activity in promoting statehood, John Smith, clergyman, merchant, and farmer was elected in April, 1803, as one of the two first United States senators from Ohio.

Smith was supposedly born in Virginia. In 1791 he moved to Colombia, Ohio, now a part of Cincinnati, where he took charge of a recently organized Baptist church. His gifts as a speaker early brought him into public life. Smith took his seat in the senate in the fall of 1803. He was credited with one speech only, but conferred frequently with President Jefferson.

When Shadows Fall

—By MARY ELLEN BECHTEL

The fields are hushed
And the breeze is still,
When twilight falls
Over dale and hill.

The birds fly home
To a nest so small,
While whippoorwills give
Their plaintive call.

Things are at peace
In these magical hours,
As sleep descends
On birds and flowers.

Then God is near
In the heart of all,
At close of day
When shadows fall.

2. Texas is first in area; New York in population.
3. Never officially. In describing the dress of Mrs. Dolly Madison, worn at a presidential levee, Mrs. Joseph Gale wrote, "Her Majesty's appearance was truly regal," etc.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Price Control Disturbs Congress, Strike Legislation Also Bothers

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

UNCLE SAM'S nieces and nephews are beginning to pester him about prices. In 2½ months, OPM reported, 1,300 letters were received demanding that "somebody do something" about the cost of living.

Somebody started to "do something" about it during the week—the house of representatives. The administration's ideas were upheld by a decisive 218 to 63 vote against putting a rigid limit on both prices and wages, but debate was scarcely under way before the clamor arose to return the bill to the banking committee for further study.

Already, under administration urging, the committee had voted to offer amendments which would give the government power to license dealers who sell regulated commodities and to engage in large scale buying and selling of commodities to stabilize prices.

The committee had stricken these provisions from the original bill. The administration, however, gave up hope that the committee would come around to its way of thinking on how ceilings should be set on farm prices. Government statisticians say the committee's plan would let crop prices rise another 20%.

Meanwhile, as the agriculture department forecast the largest income in years for farmers next year, President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation demanded industrial wage control (which Price Administrator Henderson says is unsound) and sharply increased taxes to control inflation.

* * *

Strike Effects.

Peace came too late in the miners' strike for the steel companies, which own the captive mines, to escape entirely the effects of a fuel shortage. Carnegie-Illinois reported ingot production cut by nearly 20%.

The most far-reaching effect of the strike, however, was in congress. Several proposals aimed at preventing further work stoppage in defense industries were drafted, and Speaker Rayburn forecast the house would begin consideration Monday or Tuesday.

After a conference between FDR and house members, Rep. Ramspeck (D-Ga.) predicted the president would sign his bill calling for compulsory arbitration after other means had failed.

* * *

Railroad Problem.

The president, this week, was grappling with another vital labor problem—the threatened railway strike. He ordered his fact-finding board to consider some new "facts" that had developed since it made a compromise wage recommendation Nov. 5. The "operating" railroad brotherhoods, terming the recommendation "disappointing," had set a strike for Dec. 7. The board is to report Monday.

At Home

Perils of the Deep.

Survivors of the torpedoed U. S. destroyer Reuben James told how their shipmates had drowned in the icy North Atlantic waters and how some of them had been blown to bits by the destroyer's own depth bombs.

The same day Secretary Knox reported that navy enlistments had fallen off 15%. He said the decline in enlistments was mostly among minors and that it probably was because parents were frightened by the Kearny and Reuben James attacks and were refusing to let their sons join.

* * *

Big Pay Lures Teachers.

A teacher in a country or small town school doesn't get paid much. Many of them are switching to higher-salaried defense jobs. After a nation-wide survey, Dr. Alonzo F. Myers, chairman of the National Commission for the Defense of Democracy Through Education, reported it was already plain that 40,000 to 50,000 teachers will be needed next year in rural areas.

He forecast the shortage will spread to cities and that some states will issue emergency certificates to permit persons to teach who aren't up to the full standard. He recommended pay be increased 10 to 25% to keep teachers on the job.

* * *

Busy Stork.

The census bureau reports U. S. baby production is booming at the greatest rate since 1921, but Dr. Virgil D. Reed, acting bureau head, says it's really only temporary—that the birth rate is falling in the long run. The present spurt is on account of the defense boom. The 1921 rise came because husbands had returned from war about a year before. Changes in the rate always show up about a year after their cause.

* * *

Art Out In the Open.

Art galleries are usually snooty places where a snooty attendant will tell you how much a picture costs—and then act even more snooty when you let on it's a little steep for you.

The people who ran National Art Week this year decided to change all that at their shows. They put tags on the pictures, and the prices started around $10. At the Los Angeles show, where paint-daubed artists showed the crowds how they work, $6,269 worth of pictures were sold the first two days.

Abroad

One at a Time.

Mass RAF raids over the continent slackened off this week, which led some experts to declare that the British were pouring everything they had into the African campaign, possibly even hoping to cross the Mediterranean and invade Italy.

The Russians, meanwhile, were taking an awful pounding. The Germans were pushing closer to Moscow from the North and South; the Russians admitted it. However, the Reds claimed to be forcing the Nazis back from Rostov, at the approach to the Caucasus, and said Moscow's strong inner defenses might hold the foe at bay for a long time.

* * *

Japan Considers.

Japan's Ambassador Nomura and her special emissary, Saburo Kurusu, emerged from long conferences with Secretary Hull bearing the "document" on which it was predicted hung the future of Japanese-American relations.

U. S. authorities in Japan meanwhile urged American citizens again to leave the country, and Tokyo newspapers painted a gloomy picture, especially in view of Hull's talks with representatives of Britain, China and the Dutch East Indies.

A King Grows Thin.

Leopold, King of the Belgians, retired to Laeken Palace as a prisoner of war after he surrendered to the Germans a year and a half ago. His people had heard little of him until his picture appeared on the cover of an almanac.

They noticed he had grown markedly thinner.

People

May and December.

Ten months ago Raymond Vann, 25-year-old student at a Ft. Worth, Tex., ministerial school, met a grey-haired little 70-year-old missionary lady. They began keeping company.

Last week-end they were married and began a honeymoon of 40 days of prayer, after which they plan to build a Negro Baptist Bible institute.

"He just swept me off my feet," sighed Mrs. Vann, the former Miss Lou Wilkins. Vann, who has taken a vow to write the replies to any questions he can't answer with a Scriptural phrase, didn't write any to a request for comment on the romance.

Postmen's Holidays.

Now on display at the St. Louis City Art Museum is a painting called "Muny Opera" (the St. Louis abbreviation for Municipal Opera), showing a scene from "The Red Mill" in Forest Park. It is the work of Merrill C. Turner, a museum guard.

A few months ago a museum night watchman lectured on the Greek theory of beauty.

Soldiers and Marines in Iceland write 60,000 letters a month, send home $100,000 in money orders—and every letter has to pass three censors. First a company officer reads the letters, then regimental censors sample each company's mail to see that regulations are followed. After that the base censor samples the bag from each regiment.

Stouter Flour.

Dietitians have worked out a way to enrich flour and other foods with vitamins and minerals, but the cost is too high to do it generally. Dr. Alonzo E. Taylor of Stanford University says it probably will have to be done with public money.

He estimated it would increase the cost of a $7.50 barrel of flour about 50c to add useful amounts of nicotine acid, vitamin B-1, vitamin B-2 and iron. And he's not sure that would be helpful for long. Consumption of flour has been falling off for 70 years.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, November 30.

Sunday's horoscope indicates progress, with some unforeseen and sudden opportunity for putting over cherished projects of a new, novel or reformatory nature. While personal effort may be well directed in such fresh lines, it is best to be prepared for want of cooperation or appreciation from large groups, organizations or public bodies. But refrain from disputes and controversy.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which some of their novel original or adventurous programs may find progress despite some very definite and rigid antagonism and want of support from public opinion, groups, collective or community interests. Such measures may be in the nature of reforms. Firm and sustained effort on sound plans should eventually win out.

A child born on this day should be original, energetic, independent in thought and action. It may have a unique talent which will antagonize the public.

For Monday, December 1.

Monday's astrological forecast is for continued effort and progress in lines out of the usual, and while there are signs of energetic and well-directed endeavors, practical and sound, which will have support of those who discern such worthy and meritorious projects, yet there may be danger to be expected from hidden, treacherous, subtle sources. Be alert.

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to go ahead with their exceptional, unusual, or revolutionary plans, pursuing them with vigor and enterprise. Dare to be original, to give a fresh slant to old or new projects and ideas, and this will assure support of appreciative capital or friendly interest, in spite of intrigues, or subtle attempts to ensnare or undermine. Hold firmly to constructive and progressive thinking and all will flourish.

A child born on this day will be original in its ideas, energetic in performance and successful against odds.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"All ready," my father's guards said as with one voice, and there was lilt in their tones that told me this sort of task was meat and drink to them.

Gunman Gives No Trouble.

He came out erect and sneering, his handcuffed hands caught up against his chest. But he did not make even a feint of hostile movement. The guards, looking a bit sheepish at their show of numbers, walked him over to the cot my father had indicated, and tied him down efficiently with stout ropes, while he kept up a blustering farrago of sneering, to which they paid no attention until he turned his vicious barrage of words on me.

"You'd better say your prayers, Beautiful!" he accosted me, "for when I get—"

"Can I hit him, Chief," the man Williams begged. "Please, can I sock him a good one that will shut that lousy screech of his?"

"If he speaks to my daughter again, or refers to her do whatever you wish," my father said with deadly venom in his voice. "Otherwise, let him rave. He has a lot of talking to do presently. He might as well get some practice."

The man with the shattered ankle was white with pain as the men lifted him and carried him to the cot. My father took one look at his face and spoke to him in almost kindly fashion.

"There'll be a doctor here in a few minutes, my lad," he said, "and he'll stop the pain and fix up the ankle for you. And when we get where we're going, I won't forget that you made no trouble for us in taking you out, and begged your comrade to be obedient."

"Thanks, boss," the wounded gangster said humbly, and then, detailing one of the guards to sit by him, my father with two men went to the jam closet into which I had dragged the unconscious gangster whom Harry Underwood had felled as he came through the window.

Third Gunman Unconscious.

"Underwood assured me that this man would be out for some time," my father said. "It's fairly certain he has no gun left on him. But when I open the door be prepared for any eventuality, even though I am sure all you will have to do will be to lift an unconscious man from the ground and tie him on the remaining couch."

"Take off his shoes and coat and tie him down, securely but not too tightly," my father directed. "And watch him as carefully as you do the others. He might come to at any minute."

"I leave you in charge," he said. "I shall be down again before I go away. Then, later in the day, I shall be back. Come, Daughter!"

Madge Faces Charges.

I felt exactly like a small boy being led out to the woodshed for a strapping as my father conducted me up the stairs. He did not go up to the second floor, but conducted me into the library.

"Please sit down," he said, "and excuse me for a minute."

"The surgeon has not yet come," he said. "If he does not arrive within the next five minutes, I shall telephone again. But I have that much time now, and I wish to devote part of it to a question and answer."

"May I ask," he said icily, "why you disobeyed me just now, and risked what might have happened to you by staying in the basement?"

CHAPTER IV

"Good evening . . . Mr. Dennison."

"Is your father at home? Do you suppose he would see me for a few minutes?"

"Why, yes . . . I'm quite sure. Please come in." She moved to the screen door and held it open. "How is your foot now?" she asked as he accepted her invitation with a slight bow.

"Better, thanks."

She followed him into the narrow hall. Andre was in sight. He was at the dining room table, a pitcher of ice water at his elbow and a deck of cards spread on the cloth. Idiot's Delight was his favorite solitaire—singularly appropriate, he was apt to explain. Carol walked swiftly to the door, to announce in a low voice:

"A gentleman to see you, dad."

"Who?" Andre studied a card. "That damn deuce of spades again.

"It's . . . his name is Dennison . . ."

"Tell him to come here."

As Dennison passed her, Carol lingered in the hall to observe the meeting. She heard the caller say briefly:

"I hope I'm not intruding, Mr. Delaine, but I'd be glad if you would give me a few minutes of your time."

"Why not?" Carol experienced a slight shock when she saw that her father did not rise or extend his hand. "Sit down," she heard him add. "May I offer you a drink of water? Sorry to say I have nothing better."

"I don't care for any, thank you."

There was the sound of a chair being moved and Carol returned to the porch. There another shock awaited her. Wige spoke from the gloom and there was a curious restraint in his voice.

"Why didn't you say you were expecting company tonight?"

* * *

Carol wished she could see his face. She realized that he believed her headache was an invention and for a second wished she might verify his evident suspicion. Just to see if he could be jealous. It was a temptation. But she couldn't carry it through. It was all too flimsy.

"But I wasn't, Wige," she told him quietly.

"Who is that fellow? Dennison you said?" Lennon lowered his voice cautiously, but the edge of resentment still was plain.

"I don't know," Carol admitted. "I never saw him until this afternoon. He hurt his foot and came into the office for treatment."

"Nobody ever saw him before this morning I don't think," Wige said with a slightly mollified air. "He was in Mr. Higgins' office for more than an hour. They had the door shut. I guess he knows your father."

"I don't believe so," Carol admitted. She suddenly was thankful that she hadn't attempted to lead Wige on. "But of course he may," she added with attempted indifference. "Anyway, it's something to have a mysterious stranger come to town. He's an interesting-looking man, I thought."

"He seemed to interest the boss," Wige said. "and he didn't act like he was trying to sell anything. He wouldn't have lasted that long. I could watch them through the glass partition."

"Could you?"

Carol was wondering in her turn. Why would Mr. Dennison have important business with the bank's president then seem anxious to see Andy as well? Andy didn't have an account with the bank. There was no connection there. She was puzzling that over in her mind when Wige surprised her further. He pulled his chair closer, but it was only because he didn't want his words to carry to a chance listener.

"Don't say I told you anything, Carol, but I got a hint today that there's maybe something doing about a new plant coming here. It might have something to do with the defense business. There are ever so many factories going up around the country."

"Really?" In a flash Carol recalled that Mr. Dennison had been "prowling" around the old canning building. That's what he had said. But that wouldn't explain his call here tonight. For some reason, she felt vaguely uneasy and scarcely heard Wige's despondent conclusion.

"Somebody's pipe dream, I'll bet. But if something like that would happen it might do a lot for this dump. Help the bank some . . . and maybe us."

"I suppose so." She was thinking too deeply to attach any significance to his last words. If she heard them.

* * *

Carol remained motionless in her chair near the open door. She made no attempt to eavesdrop on the conversation in the dining-room but she could distinguish the voices plainly. Mr. Dennison was doing the greater part of the talking and occasionally his deep tones lifted to a harsh pitch almost as if he were angry. Andy's contributions were gentle by comparison, but Carol fancied she caught the mocking inflection she knew so well. Her uneasiness increased and she found herself feeling thankful when Aunt Cassie returned from a neighborhood call.

"Who's in there?" Mrs. Steel wanted to know.

"Some man."

"Humph. It's a wonder your father wouldn't ask him in the parlor. Now I'll have to go up the front way. I'm tired." The screen door closed with a bang that might have been interpreted as a suggestion. It had that result.

Very soon Carol heard a limping step in the hall. Andy, apparently, was allowing the guest to see himself out. Dennison paused when he saw Carol sitting alone in the moonlight.

"Hello," he said shortly. "You still up?"

"It's too pleasant to go in."

"Very nice." He walked to the top step, paused a second time. "Your doctor is something of a character," he said unexpectedly. "I had him wrong. But you were right, after all."

"I was right?" she said in surprise. "About your foot do you mean?"

To her utter amazement, Dennison laughed.

"My foot . . . with a big exclamation point after it . . . would be as apt a retort to that as I could manage. But, as a matter of fact, I had that Biblical conjecture of yours in mind. Good night."

Carol scarcely saw Dennison climb into his roadster and drive away from the front gate. She was trying to associate his last remark with anything she had said to him that afternoon in Doctor Silverthorne's office. It had to do with something "Biblical."

It came to her in a flash: The patient's acrid humor.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Mansfield high's cage schedule for 1941-42, which opens next Friday night with Columbus South invading the Tyger lair, is now just about complete, according to Coach Vern Hoffman, with 20 games on the card.

Youngstown Ursiline has been definitely booked at Youngstown Saturday night, Jan. 24, making a two-night trip to that city for the Tygers, since Chaney will be met on Friday night.

And Noel Morgan is organizing an alumni team to meet the Tygers Jan. 9. This leaves only two open dates on the schedule, and Hoffman indicated these dates probably won't be filled.

* * *

All through the football season, Coach Paul Snyder of the gridiron Tygers maintained that the published weights of his players in the Mansfield high programs wouldn't be three pounds off, one way or the other.

Bob Winbigler is looking all of his 189 listed pounds now that he is in basketball uniform, and just remember these weights when you see the boys performing on the bucketball floor: Joe Romano 162, Ken Krupp 160.

* * *

When it comes to weights, you can't be cagey on the cage court. But there nobody cares about weights.

* * *

I've a letter from a Mansfield football fan, which he terms an open letter to Coach Paul Snyder of the Tygers, and then asks that his name not be used. A letter without the name of the writer is not an open letter.

This particular letter is too long to use anyhow, it would fill this column three times over.

But the gist, sum and substance of the missive is that the writer is displeased with the fact that the high school coach didn't make more use of his second team this year, and that he rushed his first team back into the game when opponents threatened to score.

* * *

The Tygers were just as proud of their defensive record of only 19 points this past season as was their coach.

You know that if you saw the way the first team went back in the game and held Fremont on the one-foot line in the final game of the season.

A coach can't let this year's team down, just to make his own way easier next year.

* * *

And he still has spring training in which to prepare next year's team. Much of the development of this year's team may be traced to their work last spring when the team was welded into a unit.

Lee Savold Wins Heavy Tourney

DETROIT—(AP)—Blond Lee Savold was $9,000 richer today as winner of Promoter Frank Barbaro's "white hope" heavyweight boxing tournament, but he can thank a jolting left and a decision of Referee Sam Hennessy for a 10-round victory over Jack Marshall.

Savold, whose main claim to fistic fame is that he once beat Buddy Baer, let Marshall have a hard right when the latter was on his knees p. the final round. Instead of disqualifying Savold, as he could have done, Hennessy penalized the Des Moines battler with the loss of the round.

PLYMOUTH BEATEN

PLYMOUTH—North Fairfield defeated Plymouth high's basketball team here last night by a 31-29 score. Leading in the first quarter, the North Fairfield team was passed by Plymouth in the second and third quarters, but came back in the closing minutes of the game to win.

Tony Zale Shows Up Wise Boys

5 to 8 Underdog Wins Title on Body Attack.

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Never in ring history has any middleweight achieved such a triumph as Tony Zale, the Indiana thunderbolt, garnered last night in dynamiting out a lopsided 15-round decision over Georgie Abrams of the naval air corps, at Madison Square Garden.

This victory brought to Zale the undisputed middleweight championship of the world, making him the first universally recognized 160-pound king since Mickey Walker gave up the crown in 1931 to campaign in heavier divisions.

* * *

He captivated the fans by rising from the floor in the first round and fighting from groggyland in the eighth to stage one of the finest demonstrations of devastating body punching and accurate head barraging the metropolis has witnessed in years.

* * *

In the third place, Zale was so impressive in his first New York showing since he rose to prominence, that he captured the fancy of Promoter Mike Jacobs, who immediately matched him for an over-the-weight 12-round bout with Billy Conn, former light heavyweight ruler, at the Garden on Feb. 13.

Zale, already recognized as middleweight champion by the National Boxing association, crawled through the ropes an 8-5 underdog against 23-year-old Abrams, whose speed and boxing brilliance had enabled him to beat Billy Soose three times in non-title matches.

The decision of Referee Billy Cavanagh and Judge George Le Cron and Charlie Draycott was unanimous. The United Press scored 10 rounds for Zale, four for Abrams and one even.

In the first round it seemed that the smart-money boys of 49th street were right in making "Cutie" Abrams a heavy favorite. Although a light puncher, Abrams caught Zale off balance with a straight right to the chin and sent him rolling. Zale took a nine-count on one knee, rose and weathered the round without difficulty.

OHIO 37TH LOSES TO NAVAL AIR STATION

PENSACOLA, Fla.—(AP)—The U. S. naval air station's football team pushed across three rapid touchdowns in the second period to come from behind and defeat Ohio's 37th division 27 to 7 in a "little Army-Navy game" here yesterday. The Buckeye contingent from Camp Shelby, Miss., scored in the first period on Capt. Ray Novotny's pass to Frank Toth.

Battle Again Over Play-Off

But Association Will Probably Keep System.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The annual protest over post-season playoffs was expected to be knocked down again as leaders of the American association baseball circuit met here in yearly conference.

Other issues up for action included proposed changes in the 1942 schedule and radio broadcasting agreements.

* * *

Some managers were expected to demand again that play-offs be abandoned, but sports observers were confident that the profitable post-season series would be retained—after lengthy debate. Chief objection to the play-offs has been that cold and uncertain weather cuts attendance and prolongs the series while salaries of players continue despite their idleness.

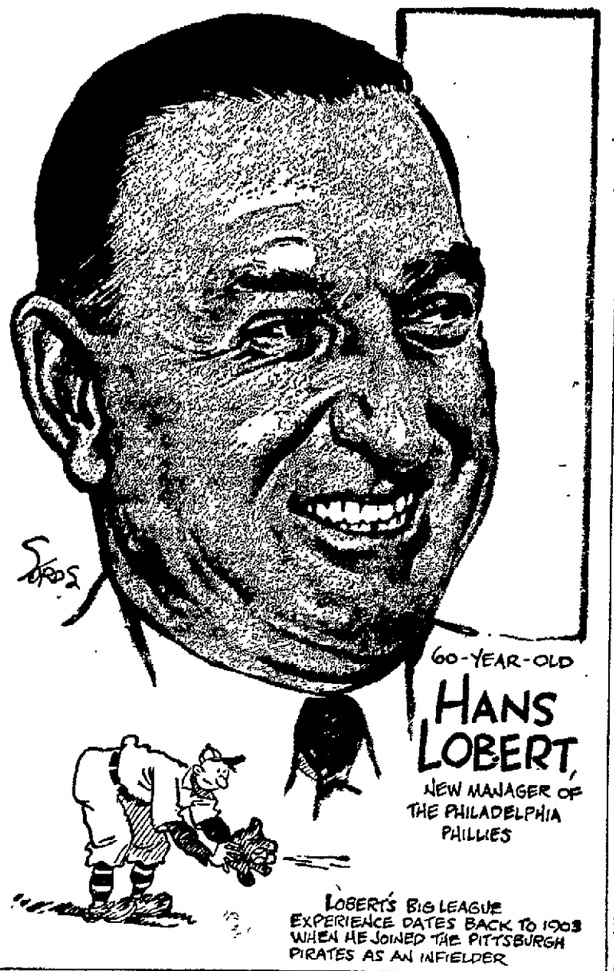
* * *

The schedule shift, designed to save each club $1,000 a year by reducing the number of road trips from four to three a season, would reverse customary opening day procedure by sending eastern teams west. If approved, the first-day schedule on April 16 would be: Columbus at Indianapolis, Toledo at Louisville, Minneapolis at Kansas City and St. Paul at Milwaukee.

The circuit's present radio agreement whereby the league sells all broadcasting rights was due to be changed also as owners in cities where radio rights are more available planned to ask that they be allowed to sell the service themselves.

The usual trade winds were blowing as President George Trautman called the team owners, managers and executives into session. One "deal" had Ab Wright, hard-hitting Minneapolis outfielder going to Milwaukee while another had President Mike Kelly of Minneapolis casting anxious eyes at Jimmy Bucher, Columbus Red Birds infielder and team captain. No deals had been consummated, however.

Phillies Boss By Jack Sords



First Lady's Impartial Fan at Army-Navy Game

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—The nation's first lady became its most impartial football fan today—and also one of its luckiest, for she had two of the 98,942 seats for the 42nd meeting of Army and Navy.

President Roosevelt, commander-in-chief of both services, couldn't come. But his wife accepted and through tradition must sit with this year's hosts, the Cadets, during the first half, moving across the turf to "stand Navy down the field" in the second.

Other contests where the gold and silver of bowl bids are at stake are included in today's gridiron finale. It will take almost a score of games to unravel the puzzling January 1 situation.

On the west coast, where the mystery is greatest, the defending champion Stanford club takes on the Golden Bears of California with a victory needed to give the Indians another Rose Bowl candidacy. Further north, Oregon and Oregon State collide, with the latter club also hunting a win to inform the bowl committee of its availability.

Most of the day's action, however, is concentrated in the south where Mississippi and Mississippi State meet at Oxford for the unofficial championship of the southeastern loop—and any invitation the mailman may bring.

In the same general area, Louisiana State meets its choicest rival, Tulane; Tennessee plays the surprising Vanderbilt eleven, and Georgia mixes with Georgia Tech. Vanderbilt and Georgia are bowl candidates.

The south also furnished all the action on last night's sharply-curtailed program, with Alabama trimming the sophomore-studded Miami University squad, 21 to 7, Rollings blanking Howard, 28 to 0; Newberry trimming Erskine, 27 to 6, and Oglethorpe blasting Troy, 21 to 0.

STILL IN 1-A

CLEVELAND—John E. Morley, chairman of Bob Feller's local draft board, said today the Cleveland Indians' star pitcher is still in 1-A classification ready for induction into the army when called.

MT. GILEAD WINS FOURTH STRAIGHT

MT. GILEAD—The Mt. Gilead Indians won their fourth straight game last night from Fredericktown 22 to 12. The low score was not the result of a stellar defense but the inability of both teams to capitilize on their scoring opportunities. The Mt. Gilead reserves also won their fourth game 20 to 13.

College Stars Defeat Pros

Trim Oshkosh 35-33 In Second Cage Classic.

CHICAGO—(INS)—The college all-stars today boasted their second successive victory over a professional basketball team as the result of their 35 to 33 triumph over the Oshkosh all-stars, champions of the National Basketball league, in the 1941 college-professional classic at the Chicago stadium last night.

* * *

* * *

A crowd of 21,800, the largest to witness a basketball game in the history of the sport, saw three sensational stars come out of the east to pace the Collegians to victory last night. These stars, Morris Becker, of Duquesne, Gus Broberg, of Dartmouth, and Jack Garfinkel, of St. John's displayed a brand of basketball that was a revelation to the middlewest, long known as the "cradle of basketball."

The Collegeians had an 8 to 4 lead at the end of the first quarter and the score was tied at 17-all at the end of the first half. The Collegians again forged ahead to take a 29 to 26 lead at the end of the third quarter.

Ontario Takes Bellville 24-17

ONTARIO—Ontario's Warriors overcame a first quarter Bellville lead last night on their own court to go on and take the game 24-17.

* * *

High scorer for the game, however, was Stoodt of Bellville who netted four field goals and two free throws for a total of 10 points.

* * *

Bellville led 7-4 at the first quarter, Ontario led 11-10 at the half, and at the third quarter the Warriors let 17-14.

WONDER IF DAVID IS HAVING ANY LUCK TRAILING THOSE AWFUL KIDNAPERS? HE SAYS THEY HAVE RELEASED ABOUT ALL THAT RANSOM MONEY; WHICH MEANS THEIR FUNDS ARE PROBABLY GETTING LOW!
11-29
HE THINKS THEY ARE LIABLE TO COMMIT MORE CRIMES. THEY ARE A TERRIBLE MENACE TO THE COMMUNITY!
ESPECIALLY AT THIS TIME...
-----THIS CRITICAL TIME, WHEN RUTHLESS CRIMINALS MAY SEEK TO COMMIT ACTS OF VIOLENCE, OF BETRAYAL, OF TREASON, AGAINST OUR NATIONAL DEFENSE!
OH, I HOPE DAVID GETS THEM. WISH I COULD HELP.
RIGHT THEN THE COLONEL ENTERED WITH A STATEMENT WHICH LATER LEAD TO STARTLING DEVELOPMENTS FOR PAM!
